Giving a Proper Handshake

BACKGROUND
Giving proper handshake is an important life skill. Many believe the way you shake hands speaks volumes about who you are as a person. When you shake hands with a person, you are doing much more than saying ‘hello’. You are saying ‘this is who I am’. We all know that first impressions last, and it is often your handshake that makes the first impression.

WHAT TO DO
Activity:
- Ask participants to introduce themselves to 3 other individuals (number can vary depending on number of people in your group).
- Instruct participants that during this introduction they should tell the other person a little about themselves. The introduction should also include a handshake. This will require them to stand and move about the room.

TALK IT OVER
Reflect:
- After participants have completed their 3 introductions, bring the group back together for discussion.
  - Ask the participants why a proper handshake is important.
  - Ask participants to discuss ‘characteristics’ of a proper handshake. Share tips on giving a proper handshake.
- Review Proper Handshake Tips:
  - Look the person in the eyes
  - Use a firm grip
  - Don’t be too hasty
    ▪ Offer hand fingers straight and thumbs high.
    Don’t grip till ‘web to web’.
  - Don’t shake too much
  - Use speech in conjunction with the handshake

Apply:
- Ask participants to introduce themselves to 3 different individuals in the group using what they just learned.
- After participants have completed their 3 introductions, bring the group back together. Briefly discuss how the last 3 introductions/handshakes were different than the first 3.

Considerations for Conducting Virtually:

- Divide the group into breakout rooms and have them practice introductions with one another, even though they will not be in the same space to physically handshake.
